COMFORT DURING TRIALS

Doris wanted one last opportunity to share the Gospel with her cousin before it was too late. Sadly, she arrived in time to discover that her cousin, who had been taken to a hospital in a coma, had run away after regaining consciousness.

The family was not able to locate her by the time Doris had to return to work. But an amazing thing happened while Doris was with her relatives. Because of the family crisis, Doris' aunt was open to the Gospel for the first time. Doris left her with the Gospel of John and two other booklets. God can use even difficult situations for His glory.

THE FAMILY OF GOD

Joseph was the only one in his entire extended family who knew the Lord. When the family gathered for the burial of his elderly father, Joseph was able to distribute booklets from World Missionary Press among his relatives. Some booklets were tossed to the ground behind his back. Undiscouraged, Joseph carefully collected them and found others with whom to share the priceless Gospel message.

Joseph felt blessed to be able to minister to his extended family as well as to new friends. Only eternity will reveal how many brothers and sisters Joseph has added to his heavenly family.

A PLENTIFUL HARVEST

One couple in South America felt the Lord calling them to go to a certain town to share the Gospel. They had no Gospel tracts, so they printed duplicates of what little material they had.

They did not have much money. In some cases, they had to decide whether they would eat or use their funds to produce material. They went without food at times so that they would have literature to share the message of Jesus Christ. When they were given a gift of free Scripture booklets from World Missionary Press, they were so grateful they wept and praised God. Now they could go and share even more than before.

CAMPUS MINISTRY

After reading The Amazing Life of Jesus Christ booklet, Cassidy was pleased to find answers from Scripture to her questions about Jesus. Now, Cassidy will be using World Missionary Press booklets as a tool in her campus ministry. Cassidy has ministered to students who have told her how much they appreciated these booklets, which allowed them to meet Christ at their own pace. When they were ready to accept Him, it was because they wanted to, not because they felt they were being pressured to make their decision. Because of this, Cassidy values World Missionary Press booklets as a resource for sharing the Gospel on campus.

SPREADING THE WORD

Alicia and her husband encountered World Missionary Press booklets on a mission trip, and saw how they cut through language barriers and provided hope to people. Now, the couple is hosting an outreach event for the Swazi Bridge Project, where youth are shown a short movie of the story of Jesus. World Missionary Press booklets will be distributed after the message of salvation is presented. This will allow them to share what they have experienced with their families. Alicia will have the chance to share the salvation message with nearly 300 youth, and with World Missionary Press booklets, the message can be shared with their families and friends as well.

GOD'S PROTECTION

Although our efforts to share the Gospel may not produce immediate results, God works in His perfect timing.

Odjone had received a Gospel booklet as a teenager. At the time, he did not feel as though he needed God. He trusted in the talisman that his mother had given him for protection. Then, one of his brothers passed away unexpectedly. Odjone suddenly had many questions about this life and the next.

Odjone recalled the tract he had received, and remembered reading about Jesus. He re-read the Gospel, and decided to commit his life to Christ. As his first act of faith, Odjone removed his protective talisman. Now, Odjone trusts God for protection.
