TELL US MORE!

Sarah runs a tutoring center for poor children in India. When she received free Scripture booklets from World Missionary Press she decided to send some home to the parents of her students. She also started visiting local villages to share the gospel. Many people received and read the booklets.

The next time she met people from the village they told her they had read the booklet and were interested in knowing more about Jesus. Sarah was glad and began to visit with them regularly, sharing more from God's word. As a result, there is now a fellowship group with nine regular participants. Sarah is praying and working toward developing this group into a church.

Do you want to share more about Jesus with those you meet? World Missionary Press can help.

GOD'S WORD IN THEIR OWN LANGUAGE

Kim was listening to the local radio station when she heard someone talking about World Missionary Press. "Oh my!" she thought! She had to let them know how God had used the Scripture booklets to lead each of her adopted children to Jesus.

Her six children are from foreign countries. They had been introduced to God's word (in English) through the local church, but they didn't really understand until they had God's word in their hands through Scripture booklets from World Missionary Press in Mandarin and Turkish. They got it! And now they love Jesus too.

Kim is thankful that a friend gave her the Scripture booklets at the time of the adoptions and so thankful to World Missionary Press for helping her share the word of God with her children.

JESUS BRINGS PEACE

Tom's home was full of arguments and violence. Tom became a bully, making a game of being cruel to others. One day a group of Christian workers came to his neighborhood sharing gospel literature. Tom shoved a Scripture booklet into his pocket and quickly forgot it.

Later he found the booklet in his pocket. As he was about to throw it away he caught the title, Who Am I that a King Would Die in My Place? Reading the booklet from World Missionary Press his heart was touched by Jesus' love. He called the number on the booklet and asked, "Can Jesus bring peace to my home?" A Christian worker assured him that Jesus is the Prince of Peace. That day Tom gave his life to Jesus and received peace.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO HELP

Today many people need to leave their home country to find work. Often work is hard to find in a new country. Without work and necessary documents, many find themselves in prison in a foreign land.

Missionaries in Japan have found new opportunities to help meet the many needs of prisoners from Africa to the Philippines, including introducing them to Jesus. Scripture booklets from World Missionary Press in more than 15 languages are being shared along with food and clothing.

For many years missionaries have relied on WMP to provide Scripture booklets to reach out to the people of Japan. Now they need booklets in languages such as Arabic, Burmese, and Portuguese to share God's word with those in a foreign prison.

REACHING THE NATIONS

International sporting events draw athletes and spectators from many nations where cultural and governmental pressures restrict or hinder the sharing of the gospel. At one such event, 5,000 athletes from twenty-four Pacific Island nations gathered for competition.

Gary was among the spectators. He had come from the USA loaded down with Scripture booklets in various languages from World Missionary Press! His goal was to give out God's word to as many athletes and spectators as he could, in a language they could read and understand. In all 2,600 booklets in nine languages were shared. These scripture booklets would be spread throughout the South Pacific, taking the name of Jesus into homes where His name may never have been heard.

The family in Holland was Muslim, however when they saw the booklet entitled Help From Above they began to read. For two weeks the entire family read through the booklet, each one coming to faith in Jesus Christ. The story of Jesus was to them a revelation and a great miracle.

GOD ALREADY HAD A PLAN

The missionaries had been going from village to village in a region of Liberia mostly populated by unreached Muslim tribes who would not allow Christians to be in their town. How could the missionaries get in?

God had a plan. Villages that repeatedly said no were open to adult literacy training! One remote village with about 30 homes had said no to the missionaries several times. Then the team offered to come and give them adult literacy training. The villagers listened to this proposal and then enthusiastically welcomed the team to teach in their village, even knowing the team would also share from the Bible. God had given the missionaries the key!

All of the formerly closed villages opened. The Lord had a plan to open the door, teach them to read, and give them something to read—His word through World Missionary Press Scripture booklets.

Muslim villages in Liberia had refused to allow missionaries to visit. How could the team get in to share the gospel?
